BY THE GOVERNOR.

A PROCLAMATION.
The Thirtieth day of May in each year has been made a legal holiday in Wisconsin, not alone as a public and official recognition of the patriotic services of the soldiers and sailors whose fidelity and valor rescued our nation from impending dissolution, but also to remove all semblance of justification for omitting to conform to the custom which has hallowed and set apart that day for decorating the graves of deceased soldiers.

Therefore, I, William E. Smith, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, recommend to all the people of the State, that they do this year observe this day in a befitting manner. Wherever it is practicable, let the strewing of flowers be supplemented with parades and music and orations, and if in any place public ceremonies are not held, let some patriotic and public-spirited man, woman or child see to it that no soldier's grave is without a tribute of spring flowers.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed.

(Great Seal) ed. Done at the Capitol, in the city of Madison, this fifth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

WILLIAM E. SMITH.

By the Governor: HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

There are three men who should keep nimb in this personal fight of Mr. Conkling, and these are Vice President Arthur, Secretary Blaine, and Collector Robertson.

If General Grant is a man of great common sense as the country takes him to be, he will write no more private letters to Mr. Jones. An indiscreet friend can do more harm than a whole regiment of opponents.

If the reports from Washington be true, Mr. Blaine has decided upon a very wise course—to have nothing to do with the senatorial fight at Albany. He should keep out of it, and Mr. Robertson should follow the example.

It is becoming a serious question with Mr. Platt whether he will be able to hang on to Mr. Conkling's coat tail when the latter returns to the Senate. It is an easy thing to resign, but not quite so easy to get a re-election.

The Northwestern railway is making gigantic strides this season, and is laying new track at the rate of one mile and a half every twenty-four hours. The company expects to put in operation 350 miles of new road this year.

We publish pretty full accounts to-day regarding the calamity at London, Ontario, on Tuesday evening. The fatality is greater than was at first reported. Nearly 250 bodies have been recovered, already, and more are still missing.

If the anti-Conkling men at Albany refuse to go into a caucus, the Conkling men should not find fault. They simply follow the example of their chief. He refused to go into the caucus at Washington, and would not be bound to vote for Robertson. What is fair for the goose is fair for the gander.

The Republicans who do not believe that Conkling should be a dictator in this government, are called "half-breeds," by the Conkling journals. These same Republicans used to be called "Lincoln's hirelings" and "Black Republicans" by the Bourbons and Copperheads. For the sake of liberty, justice, and right, the Republicans have endured a good deal of abuse, and the abuse the Conkling journals are heaping upon the great mass of the Republican party, will hurt the slanderers and not the party.

A dispatch from New York says that Carl Schurz and Horace White have purchased the Evening Post, and that Mr. Schurz will assume the editorial management. It is not difficult to imagine the kind of a paper Schurz and White will publish. It will be civil service to the back-bone, straight laced, and of the Miss Nancy sort. Both of the gentlemen have ability, and in many directions a good stock of it, but they are too impracticable in their theories for the present generation of American thought, business, and politics.

In speaking of the contest in New York, and the relative strength of the two factions, the New York Commercial publishes the following:

For Robertson. (Against Robertson.)
A. A. ARTHUR, of N. Y.
L. J. JAMES, of N. Y.
A. B. CORNELL, of N. Y.
T. C. PLATT, of N. Y.
ROBERTSON, of N. Y.
A majority of the Republican members of the N. Y. Legislature.
Ninety-eight of the 100 Republican newspapers of New York.
Nine tenths of the Republican voters of New York.

This is "the size of it" as seen through the glasses worn by the editor of the Commercial. But the Troy Times, a Conkling paper, which has as good a reputation for truth as the Commercial, and probably a little better, published the following as the condition of the sentiment in New York. If one can judge from reading the press notices of the State, the Troy Times is not far from expressing an opinion that is backed by facts: "There is no mistaking the drift of Republican sentiment throughout the State as evidenced by numerous meetings and expressed through letters and dispatches received by the members of the Legislature. The party is determined to uphold the President so long as his official actions are in consonance with Republican principles. Of these manifestations the strongest come from the most sturdy Republican sections."

The last sad chapter connected with the strange career of Lady Blanche Murphy, is about to be given the public. It will be remembered by those who read the Gazette, that she died several weeks ago in New Hampshire, and was buried at Portland. Her father is the Earl of Gainsborough, a wealthy English gentleman. Several years ago Lady Blanche fell in love with a young man named Murphy. He was an exemplary man, a music teacher by profession, and immensely below her in social standing. Her father and mother pleaded with her not to marry him, but love was too strong, and all the dazzling promises of a generous father and the tears of an affectionate mother, were of no avail. They were married and came to America. She turned her back on a palatial home and all its riches and fascinations, and became the wife of a poor man. They went to New Hampshire, where they lived in a humble way, the young husband teaching music and Lady Blanche doing housework. Mr. Murphy at last took sick, and was unable to earn a living, but Lady Blanche Murphy was equal to the occasion. She not only taught school, but took care of her sick husband, and did housework beside. In February last she died, and her remains taken to Portland, where a brief service in the Episcopal church was held, and the body placed in a vault to wait the order of the Earl of Gainsborough. A cablegram brings the intelligence that the Earl will have the body of his daughter taken to England and laid beside that of her mother in the family vault on his large estate. In all the history of love and marriage, there is not a more pathetic story than that of Lady Blanche Murphy. A greater sacrifice was never before made by woman that the object of her love might be gained; and when she left the home filled with charms, and luxury, and stepped down from one of the highest social positions, and took upon herself poverty and a life of bitter toil, she complained not, but bore her part with a patience and a nobleness that challenge admiration. The visions of her princely home, the lordly position of her father, the affluence with which she was surrounded, and the stern reality of the self-banishment and a life of severe labor for bread, did not in the least, it is said, make her regret the step she had taken. She endured all with matchless womanly fortitude, and her untimely death gives the world one of the most touching stories of the time.

THE VICTORIA HORROR.
Two Hundred and Thirty-eight Bodies Recovered—Further Details of the Terrible Calamity.

LONDON, Ont., May 25.—The work of securing the dead from under the wreck of the Victoria is still going actively on. Two hundred and thirty-eight bodies have been recovered and most of them brought to this city. All the undertakers' shops are besieged and coffins are going out by scores. The crowds at the river bank and the steamer landing have not diminished. Among the identified are two daughters of James Barnes. The list of identified is still incomplete. A large number of bodies remain on the grounds at Sulphur Springs Baths, awaiting claimants.

During the day a large number of citizens sought enjoyment in the various excursions leading from the city to adjoining towns, and for others the chief out-door attraction was a series of steamboat excursions on the Thames river. This enjoyment was rendered more attractive from the fact that this was the first day of the season for boats to run regular trips, and this circumstance, taken in connection with the public holiday, naturally drew large crowds of pleasure-seekers to the river. Trips were made down the river for a distance of about four miles to Spring bank, a place of popular resort, where the city water works are located, and three or four local steamboats took down large loads of excursionists at regular intervals throughout the day. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Victoria, of the Thames navigation company's line, started from the dock on her fourth and her last trip for the day, with a large load of passengers of all ages, variously estimated at from 400 to 600. All went well on the down trip, though the boat was so heavily laden that she shipped water in small quantities occasionally, when a crowd would happen to surge to any particular spot.

On the return trip, when more than half way home, a slight commotion on the boat, said by some to have been the playful pranks of a number of youths on the lower deck, and by others ascribed to the boat striking on a snag, caused the crowd, out of curiosity, to rush to the side, and, as the side of the boat sank with additional weight, a volume of water a foot or two in depth poured in upon the lower deck, which was crowded with passengers.

Instantly the crowd on both decks rushed to the opposite side, and their weight together with that of the water shipped by the boat, caused it to lurch in the opposite direction. Then it was that the disaster occurred. The side of the boat sank in the water to the depth of one or two feet, and while the crowd of people on the lower deck to save themselves from slipping down into the river, the stanchions supporting the upper deck suddenly gave way, and the whole structure, with its load of human beings, came down on those who were below, crushing them on the deck and rendering escape out of the question.

The scene that followed is impossible to describe. The boat continued to settle on its side deeper into the water, taking with it many of the passengers who were stunned by the fall of the upper deck and were unable to help themselves. Scores sank in the water without an effort, while many others were precipitated into the river and hurt, rent the air with their vain appeals for that rescue which those passengers who were safe were powerless to extend.

The accident occurred at about 6:15, and it was midnight before the bodies so far recovered were brought back to the city. Here a most heart-rending scene ensued. The bodies as fast as transferred from the steamers, were laid out in rows on the grass by the river side, all in their holiday attire, and, with the aid of torches, the faces were eagerly scanned by hundreds of anxious friends looking for their missing ones.

A goodly proportion of the drowned are men in middle life, and many are children of tender years. Many were the wails of sorrow which followed the identification of relatives. Perhaps it is the mother who discovers her child, or children, a parent. One man was heard enquiring for four children. As fast as corpses were claimed they were taken in charge by their friends, and removed to their homes. The utmost confusion prevails. It is impossible at present to secure a complete list of the drowned, but many prominent citizens and families are included in the number.

When the water was let off by the removal of the planks, search was continued for those under the lower deck, and twenty-two bodies were brought to the surface, making two hundred in all recovered. It is not known how many more, if there is any, are lost.

The city council met to-day and passed resolutions of condolence. A settled gloom reigns over the entire city.

R. C. Montgomery, a leather merchant of Toronto, was on board, but escaped, and succeeded in saving many others. He states that, on the passage up, the captain went among the passengers, urging them to keep on the other side. He said: "For God's sake, keep on the other side, if you don't, you'll have to swim for it." A little later on he saw the water pass over the deck and the boiler go by the board, when the crash immediately took place. Almost all business is at a standstill, crowds line the streets discussing the sad calamity.

AT ALBANY.
Speculation as to What Will Be Done.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 25.—From appearances here to-day, no one would think there was such an important question pending as the one before the legislature. Members were in their seats in both houses, attending even more closely than usual to business, and when spoken to regarding the senatorial issue, answered promptly and decisively either for or against Senator Conkling, as the case might be.

At the Delavan house Conkling and associates held levees, entertaining mostly, however, persons who are not members of the legislature.

All sorts of reports have been in circulation; some evidently set afloat as feelers, and others entire fiction. Among those given out this evening was one that the friends of Conkling say if he returns to the Senate he will abstain from attacking the administration, and further that, if it is demanded in the interest of harmony, Platt will withdraw as a candidate, and the administration section may name a Senator to take his place. It was also reported that Garfield has approved of such arrangement, and urges his friends to accept the proposition. The proposition, however, it was added, was received with not a little distrust, and had no effect upon those who are determined not to go into a caucus. If accepted, they say the election of their man in place of Platt must first be consummated before they will cast a vote for Conkling. This report was industriously put forward, but a little investigation set it at rest.

The administration men said if President Garfield has urged anything of the kind his friends would be the first to be notified of his wishes, and they have not been so notified.

There is a growing anxiety to know who the opponents of Conkling will support, not only for his place but for that of Platt. They have not given out the names as yet, preferring, as one of them said, to wait until the balloting commenced. Their votes will be scattered at first and concentrated afterward. It is said, and is settled that nothing will be said or done until Tuesday next, when the voting will commence.

THE OUTLOOK.
WASHINGTON, May, 25.—The news of the refusal of the New York State Senators to enter a Republican caucus to choose candidates for United States Senators was received here this afternoon. The friends of Mr. Conkling were dismayed by the receipt of this intelligence, having hoped that the Republicans in the Legislature would enter caucus and abide by the decision of the majority. The news was much less of a surprise to the administration champions here, they being strongly of the opinion from the time Mr. Conkling and Mr. Platt resigned that they would never be turned. The President and Mr. Blaine have no hesitation in expressing their sincere hope that neither of the two ex-Senators from New York will be returned, and any step taken by the opponents of those gentlemen in the Legislature will meet with the entire approval of the administration.

HOMICIDE AT BOSCOBEL.
BOSCOBEL, Wis., May 25.—Just after 7 o'clock this morning the report went abroad that John Phillips had shot his man. The occurrence took place in an alley west of Wisconsin avenue, in the rear of Spiegelberg Bros' store. Phillips was tearing down a pigeon that his landlady erected on land leased by him, and was interrupted by the landlady. One John Hughes, of Citron Valley, Crawford county, who was staying with Mrs. Enright, came upon the scene armed with an ax, and made threatening advances on Phillips, who warned him to keep off. Hughes still advanced. Phillips retreated until they were in close quarters, when Phillips fired, and Hughes fell. Phillips then fired, and Hughes turned around and walked a few paces, when he fell dead. Phillips was arrested, and an extended examination was held before the coroner's jury, which returned a verdict of justifiable shooting. Phillips was released from custody, and friends of Hughes took his body home for burial.

An Act of Heroism.
Frank H. Eoot in Philadelphia Weekly Times. The following incident of the battle of Fredericksburg is well authenticated. It may prove that though north and south were at war a spirit of chivalry did exist among the southern soldiers: On the 15th day of December, 1862, the sixteenth regiment and three companies of the second battalion of Featherstone's Mississippi brigade were sent to the front to relieve a brigade posted at the foot of Mary's heights, to the left of the plank road from the city towards Orange Court House. Between them and the city was a tanyard and many outbuildings. Much sharpshooting was indulged in on both sides, opportunities being afforded us by the squads of federals, who in two or three kept moving rapidly from behind extemporized shelters to their rear, posted in the city limits proper. While a squad of these were braving our shots one of them was seen to drop, while all his companions but one, taking advantage of our empty rifles, soon got to cover behind the houses. This brave fellow, seeing his comrades fall, deliberately faced about, and dropping his rifle, assisted his friend to arise, and together they slowly sought the rear. As they moved off a score or more of rifles, in the excitement of the moment, were leveled with deadly intent, but before a single one could be discharged our colonel, Carnot Posey, commanded "cease firing; that man is too brave to be killed," and then, with characteristic admiration for the brave fellow, we gave him a hearty cheer, to which he replied by a graceful wave of his cap as he and his comrade passed behind the projection of an outbuilding. I have often thought of this brave act and wondered if he escaped a soldier's death and lived to become an acknowledged leader among men.

The Annual Election of Officers, and Presentation of Reports.

Last evening the Young Men's Christian Association held its fourteenth annual meeting at the Baptist church. It was called to order by the President, N. Dearborn, and an opening prayer was offered by Mr. Noah Dutton. Mr. John Gowdy, the secretary, read his report which was approved, and the treasurer, Mr. James Sutherland, presented the financial statement, showing the receipts for the year to have been $156.29, and the expenditures $129.74, leaving a cash balance of $26.55. A committee was appointed to examine the vouchers and accounts, and all proved satisfactory.

The following officers were then elected:

President—N. Dearborn.

Vice President—E. Atchison.

Corresponding Secretary—B. F. Duntwiddle.

Secretary—John Gowdy.

Treasurer—James Sutherland.

Collector—E. H. Moon.

Directors—First M. E. Church, Noah Dutton; Baptist church, W. H. Rose; Court Street M. E. church, W. G. Wilcox; Congregational church, W. G. Wheelock; Presbyterian church, W. H. Blair.

Ushers—O. J. Wells, John Gowdy, W. H. Rose, and E. H. Moon.

The association now numbers about sixty members and is in a very prosperous and growing condition. The meetings are being more and more largely attended, and by the earnest and enthusiastic work of the officers, the interest is kept steadily on the increase. Mr. Dearborn was desirous of retiring from the leadership, but the association felt that he could not be spared, and insisted on his serving another year, as it is owing largely to him that the association has grown so within the past few years.

"Cleanliness is the scale of civilization," Janesville must stand high on the scale, judging from the immense quantities of toilet soaps Prentice & Evenson have just received. For pure vegetable oil soaps go to the drug store opposite the post office.

CUPID'S CAPTIVES.

About noon today a matrimonial event took place, which is of special interest to the Janesville folk, as the parties concerned are well known here, and the announcement of their marriage will come as a surprise to all but the immediate circle of friends and relatives. The contracting parties were George T. Pritchard and Miss Frankie M. Knapp, who were quietly wedded by Father McGinnis, pastor of St. Patrick's church, and this afternoon started for Chicago, where they will remain until Saturday evening, at which time a reception will be given them at the residence of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Pritchard, in which the Glee Club, and a few other intimate friends will participate. George is the second one of the Glee Club who has thus been captured by Cupid, and it will be strange indeed, if the example set by two of the members does not lead others of the club to go and do likewise.

The young man who joined the ranks triumphant to-day, was born in Janesville, is known and respected by all, and has scores of warm friends, who will extend to him their hearty congratulations, while to her who has thus joined her life to his, will be given no fewer expressions of well-wishes.

Making a Sale.

John Hays, Credit, P. O., says that for nine months he could not raise his hand to his head through lameness in the shoulder, but by the use of THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL he was entirely cured.

SHOOT THE WOLF.

Last night there were nine lambs, belonging to Daniel Stone, killed on his place north of this city, their throats having been torn open apparently by the teeth of a wolf and their blood being sucked out. This morning, very early, George Charlton, who had been out in that direction after cattle, met on his return trip a good-sized wolf, who was sauntering along near the road, with a self-satisfied air, as though he had an early and bountiful breakfast, and it was this wolfship, who doubtless was the murderer of the innocents. Mr. Charlton had no weapon of offense or defense, and made no attack, but a well organized wolf-hunt will next be in order.

It will be remembered that about ten days ago Mr. John Pratt had a dozen or more sheep killed in the night. It is possible that this slaughter too was the work of wolves, but these sheep were killed in a rather singular manner. It is supposed that a wolf or a dog generally pounces upon his victim's throat, and tearing that open drinks the blood, but Mr. Pratt's sheep were nearly all bitten on the nose, and in some cases the nose was munched into jelly, but the throats left intact. With two such sheep slaughterers, coming so closely together, it is evident that a prompt and decisive campaign must be opened in the interests of the wool industry, and that the murderers be captured and exterminated.

Howe Seales are guaranteed in every particular to be the best made. BORDEN, SEALEX & CO., General Agents, Chicago, Ill.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE AND EVENSON BAROMETERS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 36 degrees above; at 1 o'clock A. M. at 66 degrees above; at 7 o'clock A. M. at 68 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock P. M. at 85 degrees above. Partly cloudy.

The indications to-day are, warmer and clear and fair weather, winds generally from east to south, and stationary or slowly falling barometer.

DEATH OF MRS. CARPENTER.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock Mrs. Rhoda S. Carpenter died at the residence of her son Ed. F. Carpenter, in this city. The death was not unexpected as it had been apparent for some time that it was drawing surely nearer day by day, and its coming could not be averted.

She was afflicted with a tumor, which made its first appearance some two years ago, and which has troubled her greatly since last fall, though it did not cause her to be confined to her room until about a month ago. No skill of surgeon or tender care of friends could stay its course, and she suffered greatly until just before the last, when a foretaste of the long rest seemed to be hers and she breathed out her life as quietly as though falling asleep.

Mrs. Carpenter was born in Moretown, Washington county, Vermont, August 12, 1808. She was married December 16, 1835, to Ira Carpenter, and took the place of a mother to four children by his first wife, the oldest of whom was the late Senator Matt A. Carpenter, then a boy of eleven years. The three other children were so young as to know no other mother, and upon them her death comes with all the sorrow of losing an own mother. These three are still living—Mrs. Annie A. Cummings, of Grand Forks, Dakota; Mrs. Esther Taylor, and Cephas Carpenter, St. Paul, Minn.

Seven children were born to her, three of whom are dead. Those still living are Ira M. Carpenter, Sauk Center, Minn.; Albert N. Carpenter, Deadwood, Dakota; Daniel Carpenter, Fort Benton, Montana, and Ed. F. Carpenter, of Janesville.

Her husband died in 1862, and since then she has made her home with her children, having lived here for about four years past. She was a woman of strong mind, a woman who thought for herself, and yet one who thought for others. She was thoroughly devoted to her family, ever ready to sacrifice for them, and no mother was more tenderly loved by children. Her many good qualities of mind and heart caused her to win many friends outside of the family circle and by her death a feeling of sincere sympathy will be called forth from them toward those upon whom the shadow has fallen more deeply.

The funeral services will be held to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, at the residence of Ed. F. Carpenter, Rev. Jenk L. Jones officiating.

Jacob Martzoff, of Lancaster, N. Y., says your SPRING BLOSSOM works well for everything you recommend it; myself, wife, and children have all used it, and you can't find a healthier family in New York State.—Oct. 5, 1880.
